

TEXAS 4000

FIGHTING CANCER EVERY MILE

Summer 2019

Texas 4000 is a small Austin based non-profit dedicated to fighting cancer by spreading Hope, Knowledge, and Charity. Each year a group of University of Texas students raise money in this fight by riding their bikes from Austin, Texas, to Anchorage, Alaska. During the ride, they stop to share their inspirational stories along with powerful life-saving information about cancer prevention to towns big and small. The Texas 4000 family is not only comprised of these students, but the countless individuals who support this cause, such as the board of directors, sponsors, grantees, host families, donors and volunteers.

We are currently looking for passionate individuals with eagerness to learn about and help an amazing cause. The following internship opportunities will directly support the Texas 4000 fundraising and special events programs, activities and projects, as well as provide administrative support to all areas within the organization as needed.
